Elaborate tubles of the nature of the clouds, the temperature, the amount of sunshine, humidity &c. for each day the year, are compiled by the Director of the Observatory and see the light of day once or twice a year. We auppose these old records are of some service to unvigators,-that is to say if the navigators ever see them, which is doubtful-and perhap they may be of use at same future date in determining the character of the climate along the China coast, Of immediate practical utility, however, they are not. There was a great deal expected of the Observatory when it was THESE SOAPS, being specially prepared started, but what the residents chiefly wanted was reliable and speedy information with regard to the storms which are so disastrous- to shipping. His languid interes. might, in part, arise from his knowledge of the immense revenue now derived by China from the import of the Indian drug, a revenue which is largely devoted to the Imperial Navy, of which he is chief administrator. THE CHINA REVIEW.

HIS Review, which was intended to meet the wants of many students of Chinese caused by the discontinuance of ! Notes and Queries on Ohina and Japan, thus reached its Eighteenth Volume, The Review discusses those topics which are uppermost in the minds of students of the 'Far East' and about which overy intelligent person con-nected with China or Japan is desirous of acquiring trustworthy information. It includes many interesting Notes and original Papers on the Arts, Sciences, Ethnology, Folklore, Geography, History, Literature, Mythology, Natural History, Antiquities, and Social Manners and Unstoms, etc., etc., of Chins, Japan, Mongolia, Tibet, and the Far East generally. Recently a new doparture has been taken, and the Review now gives papers on Trade, Commerce, and Descriptive notes of Travel by well-known writers. It was thought that by extending the scope of the Review in this direction,

The China Review for September-October fully maintains the high standard excellence which characterises that publication, and altogether forms a very interesting and readable number. Me teorologists will find an interesting and valuable contribution by Dr. Fritsche. on "the Amount of Precipitation (Rain and Snow) of Peking," showing the results of observations made at the Imperial Russian Observatory at Peking, from 1841 to 1880. "Notes on the Dutch Occupation of Formosa," by Mr. Geo. Phillips, contains some interesting information, although much of it is second-hand. The Notices of New Books include a most generous and appreciative review of "The Divine Classic of Nan-Hua." and the Notes and Queries are as usual very interesting.'-North-China

'A substantial and reliable Review which all students of China and the Chinese would do well to patronise. - Chrysanthemum. The November-December number of the China Review contains less variety than usual, but the few articles are very interesting. The opening paper by Mr Herbert A. Giles on "The New Testament in Chinese" treats of a question that must necessarily be of great importance in the eyes of all missionaries. . . Mr E. H. Parker's "Short Journeys in Szechuen"

are continued, and a goodly instalment of these travels in the interior of China is given. Mr F. H. Balfour contributes a paper of some length entitled "The Emperor Cheng, founder of the Chinese Empire," which will be read with genuine interest by students of Chinese history. A few short notices of New Books and a number of Notes and Queries, one of which "On Chinese Oaths in Western Borneo and Java" might appropriately have been placed under a separate heading, complete the number.'—H.K. Daily Press.

Trubner's Oriental Record contains the following notice of the China Review:-The present publication, judging by the number now before us, is intended to occupy a position, as regards China and the neighbouring countries, some what similar to that which has been filled in India by the Calcutta Review. The great degree of attention that has been bestowed of late years upon the investigation of Chinese literature, antiquities, and social developments, to say nothing of linguistic studies, has led to the accumulation of important stores of information, rendering some such channel of publicity as is now provided extremely desirable; and contributions of much interest may fairly be looked or from the members of the foreign consular services, the Chinese Customs' corps, and the missionary body. among whom a high degree of Chinese scholarship is now assiduously cultivated. and who are severally represented in the first number of the Review by papers highly creditable to their respective authors . . Some translations from Chinese novels and plays are marked by both accuracy and freshness of style; and an account of the career of the Chinese poet-statesman of the eleventh century, Su Tung-p'o, by Mr. E. C. Bowra, ls not only historically valuable, but is also distinguished by its literary grace. Beside notices of new books relating to China and the East, which will be a useful feature of the Review, if carried out with punotuality and detail, we are glad to notice that Notes and Queries are destined to find a place in its pages also. It is to be hoped that this opening for contributions on Chinese subjects may evoke a similar degree of literary seal to that which was displayed during the lifetime of its predepessor in the field, and that the China Review may receive the support necessary to incure
